

Learning Strategy

Learning Strategies are the thoughts and actions that help make learning easier or more effective.

The learning strategy for this lesson is Asking Questions to Clarify. When we try to get more information we ask clarification questions. The information may help us to better understand others.

In this lesson, Anna asks Amelia to clarify. Amelia says, "Anna, you look ... different." Anna thinks she looks great. She tells Amelia about the new hair product: "Thanks! I used a new product called Hair Be Good."

When Amelia says, "Well, it's not," Anna asks a question to clarify: "It's not what?" Amelia clarifies, or explains her meaning: "Good. Your hair does not look good."

Do you ever ask questions to clarify when you speak English? Write to us about it in the Comments section or send us an email. Teachers, see the Lesson Plan for more details on teaching this strategy.
